4th Crashes Into Sea On Landing Try

4 Airmen Rescued, 2 Others Reported Lost On Air Mission

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP) — Communist gunners downed three U.S. jet fighters including one from the newly arrived atomic-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise, during raids on North and South Viet Nam in the past 24 hours, U.S. spokesmen reported today.

Another fighter from the Enterprise crashed into the sea while trying to land on the 85,-000-ton carrier, the world's largest. The accident occurred on the Enterprise's first day of

The four airmen from the Enterprise were rescued. The pilots of the two other planes were missing and presumed killed. The losses pushed the number of American planes downed in

Always One More Step

It is a historic misfortune that the American people have been forced to debate the propriety of waging war in Viet Nam during the event.

This is not the right time and certainly not the right atmosphere for so momentous an airing of views. On one hand, people are pointing out with great justification that Americans should stand shoulder to shoulder behind their troops and their government. On the other hand, people are continuing to point out that rallying around the flag and asserting undying allegiance to the government are no substitute for the congressional discussion that never was allowed on U.S. policy toward civil war in

In cold truth, the discussion now has turned remote and academic, because the United States is confronted by fact, not theory. There is no time now for reconsideration of the late President Kennedy's decision to send "advisers" to Viet Nam in ever-increasing numbers.

The only room for decision now is in the future. The past is a closed door. If as Arthur Schlesinger Jr. recounts in his newly published book, President Kennedy paid scant attention to Viet Nam, it may even turn out that the closed door was slammed shut by accident.

THE PROBLEM awaiting solution now is how to cope with results, not how to analyze causes What is to be the next step in reacting to North Viet Nam's escalation of the war? Would it do any good to bomb Hanoi, then Peking, then some other city, then some other city, until finally every target has been leveled?

Would it do any good to persist in the belief that the United States can inflict its will on a turbulent area of chaotic civil strife in Asia by military means? With or without congressional discussion, with or without popular debate, the Johnson administration must reach a decision on this vital point.

A "policy of containment" assumes the United States can "contain" Communist military forces wherever they seek to break out of quarantine. It does not call for outright military triumph, only for a standoff.

That is what the United States settled for in Korea. It is what it and the Western Allies settled for in Germany.

It is what popular debate is all about. It is what the congressional debate would have been about if there had been one. It most assuredly is what the current Pentagon-White House discussions are all about in the wake of Defense Secretary McNamara's quickie visit to Viet

THE UNITED STATES does not intend to lose in Southeast Asia.

The question is whether we understand now what never was fully understood when the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur wanted to go all-out for a complete victory in Korea.

The United States cannot conquer Asia. It would always need to take one more step, until it finally had been engulfed. But with luck it might come to terms with the Asiatics.

Ohio Has Something Good Going

One thing can be said for certain about Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes and his businessrecruiting expeditions.

Even if he didn't persuade a single business to move to Ohio or expand an already existing plant, the name and message of the Ohio governor are known from coast to coast and almost from pole to pole.

Unlike the names and messages of governors who have established strong identities in other contexts, the context of Gov. Rhodes' fame is all positive, none negative.

Ohioans can't expect people with something to lose to like their governor and his businessrecruiting drive. But they can be sure that even the people who wish James Rhodes would come down with chronic laryngitis all agree on one

Ohio has something good going in its widening fame as a state that wants to make things favorable for productive enterprise.

Ohio also has something good going in its official state philosophy of feeding the freeenterprise cow to make it give more milk. In many other states the cow exists only to be milked-and milked - and milked.

Their idea is to give it less and less to eat Then when the milkers wonder why they're getting less milk, along comes some genius with a proposal to milk the cow from both sides; i.e., to levy more taxes.

Gov. Rhodes was bearing down hard Tuesday on the no-new-taxes theme in New York City ers gathered to hear his industry-recruiting pitch. He couldn't have picked a better spot or a better time.

The New York City area is sweating out a financial nightmare. The cost of coping with its fantastic complications and congestion is out of all reason. Despite the generosity of the federal government, local and state taxes keep rising-and never fast enough to make ends through the nose to support New York enterit feels like to be given a fair break

Obviously, Ohio has no secret enabling it to live without spending. It has not repealed the law of economic gravity. All it has done is line up behind a state administration that wants enterprise to expand and make a profit in a favorable environment.

This is, after all, the free - enterprise system we're living under, contrary to the impression in some parts of the country its name has

A Hairy Controversy

A schoolteacher has ordered a six-year-old in Provincetown, Mass., to get his hair cut. The usual uproar has ensued.

Eventually, custom decides how an American male's hair should be cut. Our founding fathers wore their hair long. Some tied it in a pony tail with a hair ribbon.

The pioneers we revere for their hardihood wore theirs long, too. Short hair has had its era of glory, too, chiefly when American men wore wigs over their short hair to make it appear as if they had long hair.

But is it not strange that in all the pulling and hauling in recent years over the length of an American male's hair nothing ever is said about the length of an American female's hair?

Why doesn't a teacher send home a girl student because her hair is too long, too short, too loose, too tight, or too something else.

Cotton Corners

Dear Nephew: As for me, I will play the percentages. This is what I mean.

I will not let the news media panic me into thinking a tidal wave is going to drown civilization because someone has emptied a bucket of water in front of my face.

I will not let some screamer convince me the sky is falling because a hailstone hit me on

Nor will I let anyone con me into thinking the swallows are coming back to Capistrano because a flock of sparrows flew past my window.

We live in a world at a time when the scope of information has widened so far we know too much for our own good. Instead of being in a contained environment that we can evaluate and judge out of first-hand knowledge, we are adrift in a sea of chaos.

Everything that happens anywhere on earth is dispatched to us buckity-buckity and our instand reaction is needled by urgent voices and scare bulletins.

We hear about the wild antics of kids in some community we never expect to visit and suddenly it seems as if they are a cross-section of the youth of the land. Couple this with the fact we always want to believe the worst of the generation getting ready to push us old walruses off the cliff and we convince ourselves that the country is in the grip of teen-age hop-heads. A couple of hundred young men who take a dim view of risking their lives under any circumstances get fired up about a war whose popularity is ripping out at the seams and burn their draft cards We ignore the fact we know nobody first-hand who has done this or is thinking about it and start to look askance at all young men, wondering if they all feel the same way. Or we look at golden-agers who ran out of gas before the end of the race and assume they are

Where does the idea come from that American males must adhere to some arbitrary fashion standard in this matter but American females can do anything that comes to their minds? They can dye their hair, put streaks in it, bleach it, curl it, straighten it, wet it down with hair varnish, pin ribbons in iteven put a garish wig over it and appear in public made up like a mannikin. No one says a word.

Oh yes, they can neglect it until it looks like a bar mop and no one says a word about that, either.

But let a male kid show up in school with a hair cut that doesn't suit the resident academic czar and a whole community is thrown into a donnybrook of bitter controversy. Strange, representative of all golden agers. And so on and so on down through a long list

We forget the percentages.

At any given instant in this country every facet of human misbehavior is in sight somewhere and you people in the news media work 24 hours a day to keep the rest of us informed. Murder in Chicago, corruption in Kansas City, politicians being spit on in Rio, rape in Duluth, kidnapping in Jersey City, street riot in Selma, Kluxers in Greenville, swindle in Philadelphia, bank holdup in Peoria, goof ball gang busted up in Los Angeles, gang war in Seattle, scandal in Hollywood.

Is this life? Is this the true picture?

Or is the true picture of life where you area place whose serenity rarely is shaken by the bestiality and terror that dominate news coverage?

Unless you rely on the percentages, it can drive you out of your mind.

Is the sky really falling?

Is a tidal wave really rolling in?

Or are you generalizing things into existence that exist only in reports from afar about things that are unusual even where they occurred or they wouldnt have been news in the first place's COTTON CORNERS UNCLE GEORGE

Does He Still Have Teeth?

Goldberg Has Political Timetable

By Victor Riesel

Gastronomy is a handy guide to national pol-

Thus it's of considerable interest that United Nations Ambassador Arthur Goldberg lunched with several of the country's most politically influential labor leaders during the quiet of the Veterans Day holiday. In the small party at the Waldorf were the auto union chief, Walter Reuther, garment and hat workers' presidents, Dave Dubinsky and Alex Rose, who double as leaders of New York's Liberal party, and a prominent Victor Riesel newsman Insiders immediately speculated that "Arthur" was readying some political action, perhaps another move in his spectacular, albeit itinerant, career

The insiders were both wrong and right. The luncheon was strictly social. Just old friends. No politics of a personal nature was discussed.

But it appears a certainty to some observers that the ambassador is interested in first running for the U.S. Senate in New York State and eventually the vice presidency of the U.S.

SOME INFLUENTIAL Democrats on a national and state level, as well as key labor leaders and Liberals, believe the ambassador is the only man who can halt the sweep of the pivotal state by the liberal Republican co lition of John Lindsay, Sen. Jack Javits and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Accordingly, as the insiders see it, a draft movement will develop in an effort to convince the ambassador to run against the popular Sen. Javits for the Senate in 1968.

Thus, since this is a presidential year, Mr. Goldberg would be running on the same ticket with President Lyndon Johnson - and Mr. Johnson would be running with Arthur Goldberg. Certainly this would be an asset in a year when Jack Javits is up for re-election.

Mr. Goldberg is considered the only man who can bring all sides together in a full fashioned labor-Liberal-Democratic coalition against John Lindsay who will be riding mighty tall in the saddle at the time.

AT THE MOMENT there are the Johnsonian Democrats who love the Liberals but not Bob Kennedy. There are the Liberals, who gave Mayor-elect Lindsay a balance of power vote, who still love the Johnsonian Democrats but not Bob Kennedy, nor the older, traditional machine Democrats. There is the powerful figure of Bob Kennedy who bucked the Liberals who loved John Lindsay in the recent climactic mayoralty election.

Bob Kennedy and the Liberal leaders go the gastronomic route in private and then leak the story so their feud does not get too public. There's no slashing bitterness but there's no unity either.

However, there is one man who can be the mediator, the ambassador to all such forces from all such forces - Arthur Goldberg. He

Grin And Bear It

"All I ask is that the present you send me through my wife is completely pai

is an intimate of President Johnson. He could not be closer to the Liberal party chiefs. He has been close to Bob Kennedy since the days he swung the labor leaders into line for the late President and away from Adlai Stevenson back in '60.

THUS, DESPITE his present nominally isolated position in world diplomacy, he not only is the most powerful catalyst in the now creaking coalition but obviously the most powerful prospective candidate for the Senate.

Despite his worldly burdens he is in most regular touch with the Liberal, labor and Democratic leaders. He may be isolated but not insular

His friends believe he can defeat Jack Javits in '68. The ambassador by that time will have had three years of almost daily prominence in this city and state. He, as did Bob Kennedy, easily can establish official residence and thus qualify.

And, say some of his supporters, with four years in the Senate, Arthur Goldberg would be a natural for a vice presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket. He would be qualified - behind him would be the years as America's Mr. Labor Lawyer, Mr. Secretary of Labor, Mr. Justice, Mr. Ambassador, Mr. Senator, and intimate political relationships with the past three Democratic presidents.

To his friends, this is not theory - but a timetable

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO - Preliminary plans for the organization of a printing school here were discussed at a meeting in the YMCA. Hancock County officials were advised that the Treasury Department at Washington had recommended the construction of a WPA school at a cost of $76,184 for Pughtown.

Sarah Gloss was elected worthy matron of Wellsville Chapter 417, Order of Eastern Star, and Ray Hamilton, worthy patron.

TWENTY YEARS AGO - The Masonic Shrine Luncheon Club ws orgnized at a meeting in the Travelers Hotel, with Dr. John Hayes as president.

A former army nurse, Lt. Dorothy Stewart, was among a group obligated into Alfred Wedgewood Post 374 of the American Legion.

TEN YEARS AGO - Total receipts for the 1955 football season amounted to $18.500, High School Principal George Hargraves reported.

Mrs. JoAnn Coleman was received as a new member of the Triple E Canasta Club during a meeting at the home of Mrs. Barbara Bennett of Price St. The Rev. W. A. Hewitt, Owen P. Adams and William Porter were inducted as new members of the Kiwanis Club.

No private business of any size would be permitted by the stockholders to function in the same haphazard way. the highest office in govern-officers would be free to sit alongside the President and give their entire time to him. They would assist the chief executive every day not only in reaching decisions but in carrying them out. Each of the Cabinet officers would, of course, after being nominated by the President, have to be confirmed by the Senate in the same way as department heads now are appointed. Today the White House assistants - and they all have a far-reaching influence in advising the President of the United States - are chosen by the chief executive, but they are not subject to confirmation by the Senate. Hence, they are not directly responsible to the people, as is the case under the British system.

Messrs. Schlesinger and Sorensen have disclosed some details of what President Kennedy faced before the Cuban-missile crisis was brought to a head. At that time, it now is being revealed, the United States was the closest it has come to nuclear war

IN THE END, a kind of compromise was made by which war was avoided but Castro and the Communists were left implanted in Cuba, despite an explicit contradiction not only of the Monroe Doctrine but of the policies of other American presidents.

The latest book by Arthur Schlesinger Jr. discloses that Mr. Kennedy was thinking of removing Secretary of State Rusk because, it is said, the latter followed the advice of the career officers in the Department of State.

This is an old criticism and has been heard again and again in many administrations. Foreign service officers who have served a long time and have been face-to-face with many a critical situation often are lambasted because they go back in history and point out the adverse consequences that may flow from hasty or illadvised decisions.

There is nothing wrong, generally speaking, with bureaucratic advice in foreign policy. Persons inside the State Department are just as good Americans as those outside the department. Their judgment could be wrong on occasions but the responsibility for reversing them must be upon persons who have carefully investigated all phases of the controversies that arise. This should not be done by men who have had no training or background in foreign affairs and who have been selected in a hurry by a new President of the United States when he takes office.

TOO MUCH EMPHASIS is placed at the White House nowadays on political advice - as to what will be popular or unpopular - and too little thought is given to the long-range effects of the vital decisions that have to be made. President Johnson does call to his Texas home every now and then some members of his Cabinet but it's apparent that he does not have at his side constantly a Cabinet of ten persons who are thoroughly familiar with national and international problems.

There have been occasional group meetings but a regular procedure requiring council meetings at least three or four times a week between the Cabinet and the President is still not being put into effect.

Some day the errors and mistakes of the present system will come into full view, and the American people will demand a remedy

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: The question is simply this: "To filch or not to filch." I don't mean from the supermarket. I mean from the wallet of a stingy husband.

For 20 years I lived like a pauper. I had to beg my husband for every extra dime. It was always, "Wait till next week" or, "I'm a little short right now-can't spare it."

One day I helped myself to $2 out of his billfold and 75 cents from his pocket. He never missed it. I've been at this routine for three years now and it's amazing how quickly the dimes, quarters and dollars have mounted in my private bank account

For a God-fearing woman who was raised in a decent home I'm curiously immune to the pangs of conscience. I don't consider it stealing. If you wish to be analytical, you might de- married less than a year. I'm 18 scribe this behavior as "subcon- and Gerald is 19. scious revenge.

Of course it's rotten for a wife to have to beg for spending money and I don't blame you for being bitter. A wife is entitled to part of what her husband makes. And this is no handout, it's her due-for being a homemaker and a partner.

Your healthy savings account is proof that the satisfaction you get from filching is more important than the money. If you really needed spending money you'd be spending it, not saving it.

Rebuilding On Agenda For Beavers

By JOHN COMO Review Sports Writer

In his rookie season as head basketball coach at Beaver Local High School, Lloyd Stockdale will be sending a young and inexperienced team at his Buckeye Border Conference and independent foes.

Just one letterman and four seniors are returning from last year's squad that sported a 12-6 record under John Pape, who accepted a post at Toronto High

This year, Stockdale will be depending heavily on the development of four juniors and two promising sophomores to carry the Beavers to a winning sea-

THE LONE veteran is Larry Roberts, a senior forward. Stockdale describes Roberts as a "streak player." "Roberts wasn't too consistent last season. Some games he looked great, but in others, he was so-so. However, as the only letterman, Roberts will have to lead the team and I expect a good job from him." Stockdale said.

-Junior Editors Quiz on-DESERTS

QUESTION: How can plants and animals live in the hot, dry desert?

* * * ANSWER: There are some deserts, such as parts of the Sahara in Africa and of Death Valley in California, where there is so little moisture that hardly any life can exist. In many of our American deserts, however, there will be occasional if infrequent showers. Many plants and animals living there have adopted themselves to the difficult conditions. Most desert plants, for example, have no leaves, because these would lose moisture by radiation. Instead, the green stems make the food the plants need. Tough skin and bristling spines protect precious moisture stored inside cactus plants; shallow, widely spread roots quickly gather rain when it does fall. The anatomy of many desert creatures is arranged so that they get enough moisture from the other animals and plants they eat. Desert animals protect themselves from the fierce heat of midday by hiding in crevices or burrowing in the sand. In our picture, long shadows show that evening is approaching. It is then that the animals make an appearance.

FOR YOU TO DO: Count the animals in the picture. If you make it eight, you've missed one. Notice the little owl whose head looks out from a hole in the big saguaro cactus to the left. The owl has a fine place to hide on a hot day.
